Leonardo da Vinci was born in Italy in 1452 and was an inventor, scientist, painter, sculptor, architect, anatomist and writer.

The drawing, Vitruvian Man (1485) shows the proportions of a man standing in a square and circle. The writing is in a mirror image.
This study of hands was one of many made by Leonardo to explore postures for later paintings.

This is Leonardo’s sketch for a helicopter.
This picture, in the National Gallery in London, was painted in 1490 for the church of San Francesco in Milan, Italy
